A Benefit that Lasts a Lifetime

A college degree is a benefit that lasts a lifetime. Take a moment to consider the following:

- Having an associate or bachelor's degree is a basic requirement for more and more jobs. According to the Pathways to Prosperity report*, 62% of jobs by 2018 will require some post-secondary education. Many job opportunities may simply be closed to those without degrees.
- People with degrees typically make more money throughout their lives. The 2010 College Board Education Pays report** cites that workers with an associate degree earned 24% more than those who have completed high school.
- Attending college helps students grow and mature – college courses expand our knowledge and skills, help us understand concepts and theories, and increase our understanding of the world and our communities.

In addition to the information above, please review the data on the following pages. Note that graduate employment results are specific to the coursework and training designed for each individual degree program. Students who have opted to continue their education or to take their career path in a different direction are excluded from the percentage of employed students.

You have the power to change your life and at Westwood College, we know you're ready for more. Come and join the thousands of Westwood graduates who have transformed their lives, their families and their futures through the power of education.

National accrediting agencies accredit institutions that specialize in instruction and training for a career. ACICS reviews the qualifications of our faculty, the quality of education, our graduation and employment rates, and assures consistency in institutional operations.

Because ACICS is a recognized accrediting body by the U.S. Department of Education, a Westwood education is eligible for federal funding.* For more information on our accreditation, visit our Accreditation Q&A site at: <http://westwood.edu/qa/accreditation>.

Graduate Performance

Important Information Concerning Graduate Employment Statistics

The program and campus placement rates in the following charts were calculated based on the employment of students graduating between July 1, 2012 and June 30, 2013. The placement rates show only the percentage of reporting graduates who obtained entry-level employment in a job utilizing the core skills taught in their degree program and that is reasonably based on the educational objectives of their degree program.

The placement rate includes only those graduates (i) for whom information was available and (ii) who are required to be included in the placement rate. For this reason, not all employed graduates are included in the placement rate. The rates are calculated using information provided by graduates or employers. Graduates and employers sometimes misreport employment information. Misreported information could create errors in the rates, which could be material. The rates do not imply that you will secure employment or that your classmates will secure employment at the same rate because past placement results are not predictive of future program or campus placement results.

Important Information Concerning Graduate Employment Statistics

The program and campus placement rates in the following charts were calculated based on the employment of students graduating between July 1, 2012 and June 30, 2013. The placement rates show only the percentage of reporting graduates who obtained entry-level employment in a job utilizing the core skills taught in their degree program and that is reasonably based on the educational objectives of their degree program.

The placement rate includes only those graduates (i) for whom information was available and (ii) who are required to be included in the placement rate. For this reason, not all employed graduates are included in the placement rate. The rates are calculated using information provided by graduates or employers. Graduates and employers sometimes misreport employment information. Misreported information could create errors in the rates, which could be material.

The rates do not imply that you will secure employment or that your classmates will secure employment at the same rate because past placement results are not predictive of future program or campus placement results.
